Roger, I wanted to send you my testimonial on the BrainWare software.

I have been in education for over 30 years, and I have seen many “State of the Art” educational programs that promise to show huge gains only to be proven to be “actual results may vary.” BrainWare Safari is in a class by itself. I cannot speak to the masses; however, from my personal experience, this is the software of the future. My 12-year-old son has been using BrainWare for about 1.5 months and I have actually seen improvements in his reading retention and comprehension. To be perfectly honest, I have never seen anything like this before. Even though the directions say 30 minutes three times a week, for the first week my son did not want to stop. He was putting in one and a half hours a day. He loves the program. After speaking with you, I cut him down to 30 minutes a day and finally to 30 every other day. Although he has only been on the program for a short while, I have noticed his approach to learning has improved dramatically. Mike is a very good athlete, basketball being his best sport. We have even noticed a change in his decision making on the court as a point guard. BrainWare has changed the way Mike approaches different situations. Mike also demonstrates a greater degree of confidence while his communication skills also show improvement. Overall, we are very impressed by the changes we have seen in our son.

Please continue to promote this wonder (BrainWare). It is truly the next step in the evolution of education.
